first building north of the railroad crossing.

Commander's Message

We are now approaching the 44th anniversary of our USPS charter and are still moving along strongly. The success of the squadron relates directly to the participation and involvement of all the members. I want to thank all of you for making this a viable organization. Members of the Bridge, Education Department and committees have especially gone to extremes to assure our success. Two Public Boating courses were conducted during 2008, a JN course is underway and some of you are exploring some of the on-line self-study courses. We had a great rendezvous at Hessel, MI and at Wyandotte, MI. A picnic at an idyllic waterside location and parties have been enjoyable events. We have had interesting and educational speakers at all the general meetings. The only negative aspect related to all the squadron activities and programs has been the lack of enthusiastic member participation. The Bridge will continue to search for attractive incentives that may help to prioritize your interests.

Commander Arthur Pinsak, SN

Annual merit mark recommendations were recently submitted to a National USPS committee for review and approved. I was grateful for the opportunity to prepare them but regret that recommendations could not be submitted for everyone. Merit marks are the one means for USPS to recognize the volunteer service that members contribute. Service does not need to be extensive and can be in any squadron activity as long as it satisfies basic guidelines. My ideal goal would be to write recommendations for all of you.

A program called "Star" was introduced at the recent D/9 Fall Conference. In it, squadrons would establish goals for the coming year and then strive to attain them. Successful units would receive "Star" recognition. This program is not intended to be an inter-squadron competition but rather, an incentive within each squadron to reach their stated goals. The program fits the prevalent concept of short-term defined goal orientation but is not compulsory. Squadrons may elect to participate or ignore the program. If AASPS decides to join, you can tell the Bridge which goals we should strive for.

Recent news articles have mentioned a significant increase in abandoned watercraft. In view of the depressed economy, some owners see a financial advantage in abandoning their equipment. This activity, of course, leads to introduction of toxic contaminants into our favorite recreational venues. You can become involved by reporting sightings of any derelict equipment to the U.S.Coast Guard or the DNR.

Again, thank you all for your involvement in USPS and I look forward to enjoying the holiday season with you at the 1 December Christmas Party.

Art Pinsak

SEO Message

Thankyous and cheers go to those who helped with the two boating classes this year. John Barr, Bob Snider, Jadwin Root, and Frank Hoy. John Barr's arrangement to hold these classes at WCC has worked out quite well. WCC provided advertisement in their catalog, room, computer, PowerPoint projector, and PA system. Also, thankyou Cary Jones for volunteering to teach the JN class which got off to a good start 17 November 2008.

Lt/C Ron Schwartz, SN (Life)

We need a different approach to getting member courses started. In the past we have sent requests for our members to tell us what courses they wanted to take, and got very little response. Other squadrons advertise courses, instructors, dates, times, minimum number of students and locations of the classes, and hope the students respond. This, to me, makes more sense.

If we advertise our classes - show our potential students what, when, cost and location - maybe it will pique their interest and fit it into their schedules. So, I would like to try this approach for our 2009 classes. Of course students can still take any of our courses or seminars as a self study, or directed study where a teacher schedules assignments, tutors occasionally, and checks the homework to keep the student on schedule.

We need more teachers (class chairpersons) to offer more classes. USPS has a lot of great, well designed courses and seminars. If you want to teach one of these, please let me know what subject you want to teach, location, dates and times and minimum number of students. I will put this information into our newsletters. Maybe this will help to get our education program moving. Here is our current list of classes being offered.
